

Kenyon Brenner has devoted his life to teaching and performing music at the highest level possible. While he has spent years of his life performing on tour across the world, and maintains an active performance schedule, for the last decade he has largely focused on helping students develop their own enjoyment and mastery of music. Kenyon earned his Bachelor of Music and Master of Music/Composition degrees at the prestigious University of Northern Colorado School of Music in 2011 and 2015 respectively. Following his studies in 2015 he served as an Artist Faculty in Residence at the same university for five years, teaching a private studio of nearly 20 BM, MM, and DMA students, as well as courses in music pedagogy, jazz theory, jazz improvisation, the standard jazz repertoire, and pedagogy of musical improvisation. In recent years, Kenyon has begun new research into a language-based approach to teaching music which caters specifically to younger students in the beginning stages of their development. He currently resides in Irvine, CA with his wife and two dogs, Joni and Ella.
